Description

Footnotes should be "My footnotes"

Comment should be "Edit Summary"

Solution

1. Please make sure strings are unique (not used elsewhere in another template).
2. If they are not unique, please keep the old one as it is but just add a new string.
3. If unique, please grep all language files to modify string.

I did not change "Comment" in language.php because it's used in lots of templates, so a field "Edit Summary" should be created

Task solution has is incomplete and added to this we have a plugin footnote and we have comment make things quite confusing and redondant (in my opinion).

I'm not really sure My footnote is in use somewhere. It is the first time I heard about it. There is no help link to a page or help in the Tiki Documentation. Google wasn't able to show me documentation about "My Footnote" in Tiki. Documentation exist at : <https://doc.tiki.org/Wiki-Config#Footnotes> and the tooltip display over the wiki admin setting.

If still needed there should be some fixes:

Term consistency

At tiki-admin.php?page=wiki we have "Footnotes"

At tiki-editpage.php ... #contenttabs_editpage-3 we have "My Footnotes".

On Tiki Documentation we have "Footnotes"

All should be named the same "My Footnotes".

Documentation

The help link should point to the documentation <https://doc.tiki.org/Wiki-Config#Footnotes>

Design

The "My footnotes" (personal note for the user) has no design and is displayed at the bottom of the page as is. In the eyes of the user it is unclear if it is a footnote and it will be printed with the page.

They should be an optional specific design by default (italic, small) or a label to the value ("My footnote:" or a separation (box, hr).

They should be an optional parameter for printing My footnotes, off by default.

More test may be required (does other user see it, how do it look like on mobile).

I answered the first issue reported, there should be an item per issue as whereabouts can be different.
