Description

I just downloaded Tiki 4 on my local Windows machine, and tried to install it.

Everything seems to go fine, except that when I log on as admin for the first time, the system asks me to change the password. I enter the old password (admin), and then 1234 twice, and then hit Change.

But nothing happens! I am stuck at the exact same screen for changing the password.

I have tested this with Firefox and IE, and I get the same behaviour on both.

This essentially means that I cannot log in as admin and change the configuration of the site.
