It happens to me with Tiki 1.9.0.

I've got two trackers. At their admin screen, I have the option:

"Send copies of all activity in this tracker to this e-mail address:" filled with a valid e-mail address (email1), and the second one with an empty field there. I have them both monitored with my email address as user in the tiki site (email2).

When there is a new item created for the first tracker, I get two email messages. one to each email adress (email one, and email2)

When there is a new item created for the second tracker, I get just one email message. the one to email2. But hte problem is that the system admin in my server gets a message with an empty "To:" field.

It seems as if messages from "Send copies of all activity in this tracker to this e-mail address:" are attempted to be sent, even if there is no email entry there...

Could this be the cause of the problem?

An example of the wrong email headers here:

I'm using catalan l10n of Tiki, and "Damian-based" theme style.

(note that I've added manually now as reporting time the "NOSPAM@" bit in the middle of my email address (but the email was ok)
